

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

The present invention relates to a system and method for coordinating a competitive sporting event. The present invention comprises receiving information from multiple users regarding the user's willingness to consider participation in a potential competitive sporting event. The present invention organizes the received information from the multiple users into an electronically searchable format. The invention also provides access to the organized information to the multiple users and, optionally, third parties.

W:\9000\9456\0005\khPatAppgen.wpd